Dear The Federal Communications Commission,

Congratulations on your appointment to Chair the FCC. In your new leadership role, I urge you to support the "Fair Share Plan" as a solution to current concerns with the Universal Service Fund (USF). The Fair Share Plan will keep the USF fair, ensuring that consumers like me do not pay the same rate into the USF as big businesses, regardless of how little I may use long distance.

Let's be honest here; my family doesn't use long distance or our cell phones very much. By shifting an unfair tax burden to us, we will be forced to decide whether to have a cell phone at all, or whether to give up our local service. I would imagine that would have more of an impact on the communications business than charging taxes based on actual useage. In your wildest dreams, how does a tax that is flat across the board hope to remain solvent as useage increases? Make the people that use (or even overuse?) the system more, pay more. It only makes sense that someone who currently pays more in long distance access fees and taxes than he actually spends on the long distance calls themselves shouldn't have to continue to pay more and more for the "privilege" of possibly using the phone.

So please remember your duty to all Americans, and make this system fair for all.

Sincerely,

Bryan MacLeod
